Editorial

Ms. Devika V

What is a good life? Who decides what kind of life is good, and what isn't? When did we gain the confidence to judge the lives and choices of others as "not enough"? Our society has, over time, successfully thrown us all into a frenzy, effectively ensuring that people would automatically equate this mindless frenzy with development, growth or advancement. Rest and the need for it is often equated to weakness. A single pattern for all, whether it fits or not. Some choices are deemed elite, some otherwise. Which brings happiness, no one bothers to evaluate. The world has a measuring scale. And what refuses to be measured is measured as a failure. And thus, the world deprives us of the need to slow down. The world begins to celebrate burnout. Take a moment. Sit down. Introspect. Do you remember your own company? If not, make friends with yourself. You're an interesting person! Don't let the race make you forget yourself.

Pokkali Farm Visit

The Post Graduate students of the Department of Botany visited a Pokkali farm at Maruvakkad, Chellanam to observe the flowering of paddy, on 27 September, 2022, Tuesday, accompanied by Dr. Siju M. Varghese and Ms. Mary Joseph. The event was organised by the Department of Botany and Naisarg Nature Club of the college, in association with the Breakthrough Science Society. The team was warmly welcomed by the residents of the area and was safely transported to the farm in row boats, where the paddy flowers had just started to bloom. The local farmers led by Mr. Chandu explained the entire process of Pokkali farming and shared their experiences with the students. He emphasised the need to preserve the traditional practices especially the organic methods for cultivation. The students presented Mr. Chandu a 'kasavu mundu' as a token of appreciation for his contributions in farming. The students were also invited to visit the farm during the harvest period later in November. The field trip provided the students an opportunity to supplement their classroom learning.
