Evidence of Success –

1. The college was able to engage more effectively with communities in need, following the rules and regulations put forth due to the global pandemic. Students, staff and stakeholders ensured that resources and daily necessities were made available to individuals and families in need. This involvement also helped the volunteers to be aware of the states of the lives of people in their own city, and to be mindful of issues such as wastefulness and reckless resource use.
2. The college was declared a "Filament Free Campus" in recognition of its efforts to trace the use of electricity through a widespread survey and statistical analysis. This helped in bringing important aspects such as the careful use of electricity and other resources into perspective.
3. Medical awareness was also a significant part of the outreach programmes designed by the college. Along with rising up to individual needs, the institution was also able to create awareness on health issues such as breast cancer.

Problems Encountered & Resources Required –

1. The major hurdle faced the institution was managing to execute outreach activities even with the limitations put in place by the global pandemic. A number of events were conducted online, in order to abide by said rules.
